PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE 106th CONGRESS, FIRST SESSION

Vol. 145

WASHINGTON, FRIDAY, JUNE 18, 1999

No. 87

Senate

The Senate met at 9:30 a.m. and was called to order by the President pro tempore [Mr. THURMOND].

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Dr. Lloyd John Ogilvie, offered the following prayer:

Gracious God, as we approach this Father's Day weekend, we praise You that You are our Heavenly Father from whom we learn what true fatherhood really means. You exemplify the perfect blend of admonition and affirmation, discipline and nurture, encouragement and inspiration.

May this Father's Day be more than a celebration honoring fathers, but a day of calling fathers to their responsibility for the spiritual and character formation of their children. In this time of absentee fathers, when 21 million children in America live without a father in their homes, we ask You to instigate a father movement.

Bless the families of our land. Stir fathers who have abdicated their responsibility. When fathers are silent about their faith, children miss the strength and courage of learning how to trust You with the ups and downs of life. O God, we need a great spiritual awakening. Thank You for waking up the fathers of the land and for a Father's Day dedicated to the recovery of the role of strong fathers to love their wives and their children. Through our Lord and Savior. Amen.

RECOGNITION OF THE ACTING MAJORITY LEADER

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The able acting majority leader is recognized.

SCHEDULE

Mr. ENZI. Mr. President, today the Senate will immediately begin the vote on final passage of H.R. 1664, the steel, oil and gas appropriations legislation. Following that vote, the Senate will begin consideration of the State Department authorization bill under a previous consent agreement. Therefore, votes are anticipated.

I thank my colleagues for their attention.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. HAGEL). The Senator from West Virginia.

KOSOVO AND SOUTHWEST ASIA EMERGENCY SUPPLEMENTAL APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 1999

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I am authorized by the distinguished majority leader to ask for 5 minutes prior to the vote to be equally divided between Mr. NICKLES and myself.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent also that other Senators may include statements in the RECORD if they so wish.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The clerk will report the bill by title. The legislative assistant read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 1664) making emergency supplemental appropriations for military operations, refugee relief, and humanitarian assistance relating to the conflict in Kosovo, and for military operations in Southwest Asia for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1999, and for other purposes.

The Senate resumed consideration of the bill.

Mr. VOINOVICH. Mr. President, no one cares about our Nation's steelworkers and steel industry more than I.

Since 1979, I have been at the forefront in support of Ohio's steel industry. As Mayor of Cleveland and Governor of Ohio, I pressured the Reagan and Bush Administrations to enforce the voluntary restraint agreements, VRAs, on steel and to make sure that all U.S. trade laws were enforced as soon as those agreements expired. In 1991, I set up the first Ohio Steel Industry Advisory Council as a public-private partnership to strengthen ties among the steel industry, the state of Ohio and its citizens.

And last year, when steel imports reached record levels, I was one of the first elected officials to pressure the Clinton administration to stop the illegal dumping of steel in our country. Since October of 1998, I have written the President three letters urging him to take action on behalf of the steel industry.

Ohio is now the largest steel producing state in the Nation—a development that occurred during my term as governor. Many have assumed that because steel is so important to the state of Ohio that I would vote in favor of this legislation. But it is because steel is so important that I cannot vote in favor of this legislation. There are three fundamental reasons why.

First, this bill does not provide industry-wide assistance. The legislation as it has been presented to the Senate provides loan-guarantee assistance to a few steel companies, and not all companies. In fact, the vast majority of steel companies in Ohio have not approached me indicating that my vote in favor of this legislation was crucial. Some steel companies in my state are opposed to this bill.

It does not make sense that in an economy as strong as ours, with steel production in the United States at record, all-time highs, with all the construction that is occurring in our nation, and all the cars that are being made and the record unemployment, that we should pass a package that is meant to assist only a handful of companies.

Which brings me to my second point: the government should not be in the position of picking winners and losers. What this legislation does is tell those companies that may have made poor business decisions that they will be given help. Meanwhile, we ignore those companies that have done the right actions to make themselves competitive. This is not the spirit of American enterprise.

Indeed, I have to ask if we are going to make it the business of the federal government to help companies inside particular industries on a regular basis. We could be here in the Senate spending every taxpayer dollar bailing out specific businesses inside specific industries whenever we saw an economic threat or whenever we desired. Where will we draw the line? How will we decide which failing companies we'll bail out? What criteria will we use? Every time a company has a bad quarter or a bad year, should the federal government provide them with financial assistance? How are we different from those foreign countries we criticize for subsidizing their companies that are struggling to compete? These are the kinds of questions we need to ask if this is going to be the policy our government pursues.

Third, the history behind such loan programs points to a high default rate. The proponents of this legislation have indicated that they expect a default rate on the loans of 14%. That means of the $1 billion worth of loans that the government will guarantee for steel manufacturers, $140 million of that is expected to never be repaid. For the oil and gas industry, the expected default rate is higher, 25%, or $125 million on a loan guarantee of $500 million.

In essence, what Congress wants to do is allow the federal government to simply write off $265 million of taxpayer funds. That money has to come from somewhere, whether it's the Social Security trust fund, tax increases, or cuts in essential programs for our children.

The last time this nation established a steel loan guarantee program in 1978, the default rate was 77%. Five companies took out loans—all five companies defaulted and the U.S. taxpayer was forced to pick-up the tab for $222 million. The U.S. Commerce Department's Economic Development Administration said at the time, "By any measurement, EDA's steel loan program would have to be considered a failure." In addition, EDA said, "the program is an excellent example of the folly inherent in industrial policy programs." Now, I cannot guarantee that the companies today, if given these loan guarantees, will default at such a high rate, but I do not believe we should be making the same mistakes twice at the expense of other federal programs.

Mr. President, there have been scant few instances where the Federal Government getting involved in market decisions has been productive. I do not believe that we should do so here.

Mrs. LINCOLN. Mr. President, yesterday during consideration of the Steel and Oil and Gas Loan Guarantee Program the Senator from Illinois, Senator FITZGERALD, raised several concerns regarding the potential for program abuse. During these discussions, my colleague from Illinois questioned whether or not a bank, or other investor, would be able to transfer their risk to the government upon enactment of the Steel and Oil and Gas Loan Guarantee Program.

Fiscal responsibility is a top priority of mine and upon hearing of these concerns, I was initially troubled. However, I have been assured by the distinguished Senator from West Virginia, Senator BYRD, that the loan approval board is structured such that these situations will be prevented. Loans will not be approved on a whim and the taxpayers' dollars will not be thrown about recklessly to benefit those who did not need help in the first place. This program provides much needed, temporary assistance to keep our steel industry afloat.

It should be noted that the Steel and Oil and Gas Loan Guarantee Program sunsets in three years and is not a permanent change in public policy. We are simply responding to the crisis currently faced by many in our nation's steel industry.

I rise in support of this measure and thank the Senator from West Virginia for his leadership on this issue.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, this bill on which we are about to vote is a buy-American bill. A vote for this bill is a buy-American vote, a vote of confidence in American steel, American workers, and American families. But a vote against the bill sends a very different message. It says buy Russian, buy Japanese, buy South Korean, buy from our foreign competitors and send our steel industry and our steel jobs overseas. I urge my colleagues to vote American.

Now, if I have any time remaining in the 2½ minutes, I wish to compliment Mr. NICKLES, Mr. GRAMM, and others who were the opponents of the bill. They were honorable opponents, and I think they made good contributions, especially in our discussions yesterday. Their proposals improve the bill. I was happy to support their proposals and to join as a cosponsor of the amendment.

I especially wish to thank Senator STEVENS and Senator DOMENICI. Senator STEVENS has kept his word. He is a man of his word. Senator DOMENICI has done a great job in proposing a similar program for the oil and gas industry. I hope that he will be able to speak likewise at some point.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I urge my colleagues to vote against this bill. I compliment the sponsors of it, Senator BYRD and Senator DOMENICI. They are very persistent. I expect they will be successful today, but I hope that this bill doesn't pass either today in the Senate or in the conference.

I urge our colleagues to vote against it. The reason is because I think it is a mistake. It is not that I don't want to help the steel industry or that I don't want to help the oil and gas industry. I want to help both.

I do not think the Federal Government guaranteeing loans is the right thing to do. We have tried it. We have been there. It did not work. We did it in 1978 and 1979. The Federal Government had a loan guarantee program for the steel industry—$290 million worth of steel loans were made, guaranteed by the Federal Government. The Federal Government loaned $222 million on which the steel industry defaulted. That is a 77 percent default rate. Basically, the people who ran the program at the time or later said, well, really, it was replacing the marketplace with politicians making those decisions, saying that we don't think that the marketplace should be making capital decisions; we are going to have those decisions being made by Government.

I think that was a serious mistake. We have urged other countries not to go into this industrial policy; let the marketplace work. And now we are trying to come back and do it. We have done it before. It did not work before.

I want to help the oil and gas industry. It is really hurting in my State. But I do not think that having the Federal Government guaranteeing loans is the right solution. As a matter of fact, I do not think it will help anybody. I do not think it will even help the steel industry. It might help them reshuffle some debt, but I do not think it makes sense.

I urge my colleagues to vote no on this bill today.

Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays on the bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There appears to be a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill having been read the third time, the question is, Shall the bill pass? The yeas and nays have been ordered.

The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative assistant called the roll.

Mr. NICKLES. I announce that the Senator from Arizona (Mr. MCCAIN) is necessarily absent.

Mr. REID. I announce that the Senator from Connecticut (Mr. DODD) is necessarily absent.

I further announce that the Senator from New Mexico (Mr. BINGAMAN) is absent attending a funeral.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber who desire to vote?

The result was announced—yeas 63, nays 34, as follows:

SEC. 101. EMERGENCY STEEL LOAN GUARANTEE PROGRAM. (a) SHORT TITLE.—This chapter may be cited as the "Emergency Steel Loan Guarantee Act of 1999".

(b) CONGRESSIONAL FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

(1) the United States steel industry has been severely harmed by a record surge of more than 40,000,000 tons of steel imports into the United States in 1998, caused by the world financial crisis;

(2) this surge in imports resulted in the loss of more than 10,000 steel worker jobs in 1998, and was the imminent cause of 3 bankruptcies by medium-sized steel companies, Acme Steel, Laclede Steel, and Geneva Steel;

(3) the crisis also forced almost all United States steel companies into—

(A) reduced volume, lower prices, and financial losses; and

(B) an inability to obtain credit for continued operations and reinvestment in facilities;

(4) the crisis also has affected the willingness of private banks and investment institutions to make loans to the United States steel industry for continued operation and reinvestment in facilities;

(5) these steel bankruptcies, job losses, and financial losses are also having serious negative effects on the tax base of cities, counties, and States, and on the essential health, education, and municipal services that these government entities provide to their citizens; and

(6) a strong steel industry is necessary to the adequate defense preparedness of the United States in order to have sufficient steel available to build the ships, tanks, planes, and armaments necessary for the national defense.

(c) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this section:

(4) the company has agreed to an audit by the General Accounting Office prior to the issuance of the loan guarantee and annually thereafter while any such guaranteed loan is outstanding; and

(5) In the case of a purchaser of substantial assets of a qualified steel company, the qualified steel company establishes that it is unable to reorganize itself.

(h) TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF LOAN GUARANTEES.—

(l) REGULATORY ACTION.—The Board shall issue such final procedures, rules, and regulations as may be necessary to carry out this section not later than 60 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

(m) IRON ORE COMPANIES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to the requirements of this subsection, an iron ore company incorporated under the laws of any State shall be treated as a qualified steel company for purposes of the Program.

(2) TOTAL GUARANTEE LIMIT FOR IRON ORE COMPANY.—Of the aggregate amount of loans authorized to be guaranteed and outstanding at any one time under subsection (f)(2), an amount not to exceed $30,000,000 shall be loans with respect to iron ore companies.

SEC. 201. PETROLEUM DEVELOPMENT MANAGEMENT. (a) SHORT TITLE.—This chapter may be cited as the "Emergency Oil and Gas Guaranteed Loan Program Act".

(b) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

(1) consumption of foreign oil in the United States is estimated to equal 56 percent of all oil consumed, and that percentage could reach 68 percent by 2010 if current prices prevail;

(2) the number of oil and gas rigs operating in the United States is at its lowest since 1944, when records of this tally began;

(3) if prices do not increase soon, the United States could lose at least half its marginal wells, which in aggregate produce as much oil as the United States imports from Saudi Arabia;

(4) oil and gas prices are unlikely to increase for at least several years;

(5) declining production, well abandonment, and greatly reduced exploration and development are shrinking the domestic oil and gas industry;

(6) the world's richest oil producing regions in the Middle East are experiencing increasingly greater political instability;

(7) United Nations policy may make Iraq the swing oil producing nation, thereby granting Saddam Hussein tremendous power;

(8) reliance on foreign oil for more than 60 percent of our daily oil and gas consumption is a national security threat;

(9) the level of United States oil security is directly related to the level of domestic production of oil, natural gas liquids, and natural gas; and

(10) a national security policy should be developed that ensures that adequate supplies of oil are available at all times free of the threat of embargo or other foreign hostile acts.

(2) PROGRAM.—The term "Program" means the Emergency Oil and Gas Guaranteed Loan Program established by subsection (d).
